1. Introduction

The current situation of the toy industry is full of vitality and challenge. As technology advances and consumer demand continues to diversify, the toy industry is undergoing a revolution.

Jellycat is a brand that manufactures and develops toys. It originated in London, England. Founded by brothers William Gatacre and Thomas Gatacre in 1999, Jellycat specializes in the production of fashionable plush toys. The brothers aspired to break boundaries and not become 'just another teddy bear company.' For instance, when designing rabbits, they used different shapes, colors, textures, sizes, and materials to evolve distinct styles.

The name Jellycat stems from the dream of a child who loves jelly and cats, giving birth to this quirky yet witty name that perfectly reflects its brand image. Known for its character of soft, this brand has created original and innovative toys through its efforts in London. By combining luxurious fabrics with occasionally whimsical designs, each toy appears adorable but always carries something unique that sets it apart.

Consumption in the world toy market recovered less than expected. From multinational companies to Chinese toy manufacturers, the business performance of many enterprises declined in the first half of the year. Well-known enterprises such as toy giant Mattel, their net sales in the second quarter were only 1.087 billion US dollars, down 12% year on year, and the net profit was 27.2 million US dollars, down 59% year on year \[1\]. This paper selects a British toy brand jellycat, analyzes its sales strategy and current situation, and explores the development path of the brand.

2. SWOT Analysis

SWOT analysis method, also known as the pros and bad analysis method, consists of four English words, S represents advantage (strengths), W represents disadvantage (weaknesses), 0 represents opportunity (opportunities), and T represents threat (threats). SWOT analysis refers to the based on internal competition environment and competition under the condition of situation analysis, through the research object of internal advantages and disadvantages and external opportunities, threats, and

The DC Hero series, which launched in the third quarter, was particularly impressive and eventually sold for $1.999 million. Similar successful attempts to expand IP licensing links in new directions and are expected to grow further in the future.[8]

Data from the National Bureau of Statistics showed that the per capita disposable income of Chinese residents was 36,883 yuan in 2022, an increase of 5.0 percent over the previous year, or 2.9 percent in real terms, after deducting price factors.
