its content and form. In order to attract enough user attention in a short time, short videos must have interesting, novel and unique characteristics, and with obvious emotional resonance points. Therefore, when planning and making short videos, you must create an explosion point to attract the attention of users. How to create explosive points requires consideration from multiple levels.

First of all, you can attract the interest of users by selecting various fresh and popular materials or opportunities [3]. With the popularity of Zibo's explosion, making a short video related to it has become one of the popular materials that attract users' attention. For example, the pushing Zibo to the real traffic broke out is the video of more than a video of more than ten barbecue stalls in Zibo released on April 8th, which has a number of fan volumes of 21.375 million fans and specializing in fake Douyin gourmet bloggers "B Tai". With a certain amount of traffic, people have natural value recognition of "punishing evil and promoting good", which can stimulate the sense of justice and stimulate emotions. In the previous video, he called on everyone to "precisely avoid the pit", and the person who has always dared to tell the truth has made netizens always trust him. The evaluation for Zibo is based on such trust.

Secondly, the storyline, expressions, and character characters of making short videos also need to adopt novel and special ideas. Good creativity can make the video more visible and technical, and create a certain atmosphere, emotional resonance and emotional resonance and emotional resonance. Interaction. In this issue of blogger B too, the owners of the eight major situation market stalls all said, and said that they could also "send more" and "free taste". As professional counterfeiters, B accidentally lamented that the city had to have to have It is admirable. After a day, the three people ate coolly, and it took a total of 300 yuan. It was even more incidental here. Many netizens were a little moved, because I haven't seen such a conscience city for a long time. People have been by Zibo. The enthusiastic hospitality of the locals was moved, and once again pushed Zibo barbecue to hot search.

There are many aspects of short video production. When creating an explosion point, you need to learn from the successful experience of his predecessors. You also need to continue to try and summarize experience from it to continuously innovate to meet the needs of the audience and expand your influence.

3.2. Precision Positioning People, Expand Influence

Zibo exploded the most active group of "young people". In the rise of Zibo's traffic in February and March, the population aged 18-40 accounted for the largest proportion. The ages, and the proportion of crowds every age is 26%, 31%, and 30%, respectively, and is the main promoter of Zibo's explosive fire. The youth group is full of vitality, comes with traffic, and passion. It has strong innovation and psychology. New things have fast acceptance ability, unwilling to loneliness, and like to try to explore. At the same time, I am good at using new media platforms such as "two micro-shaking" to spread their ability to express their expression. It can be said that what young people pay attention to and are sought after, and where the traffic is naturally.

3.3. Pay Attention to Feedback and Continue to Improve

In short video dissemination, it is very important to attach importance to audience feedback. The audience's perception and feedback are one of the important indicators to judge the quality of the video. An effective method of collecting audience feedback is to actively respond and answer the audience's questions and concerns through social media platforms and barrage. In addition, carefully analyze this feedback, understand the audience's preferences and doubts, and guide the follow-up content creation and communication strategies. At the same time, we should continue to improve their short video creation and communication strategies. You can hold a seminar regularly, summarize the past creative experience and feedback results with team members, find problems and solve it in time. Through continuous improvement and innovation, short video quality can be continuously improved, and more audiences and communication effects can be attracted.

In the context of Zibo explosion, government departments have not only promoted the rapid development of the urban economy, but also promoted the cultural needs and creative thinking of citizens.

The local government knows that "traffic is often available, and" retention "is not often available ". In order to prevent the infected products of the net red, only the common problems of "a moment of scenery", the Zibo Municipal Government quickly launched various supporting measures. On March 10, the Zibo Municipal Government Information Office announced the establishment of the Zibo Barbecue Association to release a map of barbecue. At the same time, 21 customs baked bus lines were specially added. The city's 38 youth stations provided discount services for young people who came to Zibo tourism. The Zibo government made a "everything in everything" and launched a special barbecue line to ensure that tourists everywhere played without worries. Naturally, Zibo barbecue has become a popular food, so as to make Zibo into an Internet celebrity city and reverse the local economy.

From accepting tolerance to the guarantee of measures, Zibo's serious attitude and timely response to tourism dividends, let us see the possibility of "Zibo barbecue" sustainable to expand the flow effect.

a role in promoting Zibo barbecue explosion.
